

Farming the Life Blood of the Settlement

With each family entering the valley in 1859, came their family cow, their oxen to pull the wagons and plow the fields, their sheep for clothing, their horses to ride, their swine for meat, and tucked away in a crate in the back of the wagon the family flock of chickens.

Supporting Documents

Farming in the Valley.pdf 3.06 MB